Jack Cameron Has Great 74 To Lead In Canadian Golf

Takes Lead at Halfway Mark in 36-Hole Qualifying Round Over Rain-soaked Course of Shaughnessy Heights Club; Kenny Black in Second Position One Stroke Behind

Dr. O. F. Willing, Portland, and Jack Finger, San Francisco, Tied For Third; Weather Takes Toll of Many

Canadian Press
Shaughnessy Heights Golf Club, Vancouver, B.C., July 10.—Jack Cameron, youthful veteran of Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal golf links, swept into the lead in the qualifying round of the Canadian amateur golf tournament today when he carded a hard-earned 74 over this rain-drenched course to defy adverse weather conditions. Cameron clipped a stroke from par with an outgoing 36 and returned in 38 to take the lead from a select field of 107 Canadian and United States stars.

On the title trail for the ninth consecutive year, Cameron bagged three birdies in a spectacular first nine starting shakily. He uncovered all his wizardry on the eighth and ninth, both par four holes, when his deadly approach and confident putts earned him birdies. He sank a long putt on the tenth for his third consecutive birdie and finished the tour of the par 72 course in steady style to set the pace for the championship contenders.

TAYLOR HAS 80
Alan Taylor, Victoria, runner-up in the recent P.N.W. championship, found the going tough and needed 80 strokes on his round this morning.

CONDITIONS BAD
Penetrating rain fell throughout the morning and took its toll among several favorites. Visibility was extremely poor and the players continually misjudged distances.
Close on the heels of the pace-setting Ontario came twenty-year-old Kenny Black, who hit British Columbia to victory in the interprovincial team matches Saturday. Black's intimate knowledge of the Shaughnessy course stood him in good stead today as he patrolled the first nine in an even par and (Turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

Steel Figures Show Business Is Gaining

Big U.S. Corporation Reports June Orders 176,856 Tons Above May; Business Proved on Upgrade, Say Dun and Bradstreet

Associated Press
New York, July 10.—Unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation increased 176,856 tons in June to a total of 2,106,671 tons, the corporation announced today. The gain was the largest since the termination of the long-continued down trend in April. May tonnage rose 63,241 tons.

The rise carried the backlog above the 2,000,000-ton level for the first time since June, 1932. Basing its opinion on reports of a substantial acceleration of demand for steel during the month, Wall Street had estimated the tonnage gain at from 80,000 to 100,000 tons.

Since 1929 June had shown a decrease in the corporation's tonnage. The increase was the largest reported for any month since December, 1930.

By Hiram Hestell, Associated Press Financial Writer
New York, July 10.—The striking colors which the industrial picture has taken on in the United States recently became even brighter during the last week as business moved forward with unprecedented rapidity.

Trade reports indicate orders poured in from unexpected sources and for amounts unimagined for many a month. A further reduction of unemployment is shown, accompanied in many cases by encouraging announcements of pay increases.

PRODS QUOTED
"It is no longer an opinion that business is on the upgrade. It is a fact," announced Dun and Bradstreet Inc., which feels the weekly increase in the backlog of unfilled orders is unquestioned proof of the permanency of the general improvement.

Most graphs depicting the course of industrial activity are now at the peak for 1933, while others have crossed last year's position and are now beyond the 1931 territory.

In the latter category, the steel industry continues to be a blue-ribbon leader, with production nearly on a parity with 1930.

Other Californians arriving by the Santa Paula for a stay here will be Mrs. E. M. Sherman of Pasadena, and a party of ten and Reuben W. Hills and family, going to Alaska on a holiday tour.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Van Arsdale, of New York, are making the trip out via the Empress of Japan, and will reach here by the Santa Paula Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Chancellor of Exchequer Tells Commons of His Country's Basic Policy

Indicates Approval of Roosevelt's Rejection of Stabilization Plan

Associated Press
London, July 10.—Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, launching a debate on the World Economic Conference in the House of Commons today, declared Great Britain's basic policy was in the raising of wholesale commodity prices.

He declared this was not possible by monetary action alone, although certain monetary factors must be present as a necessary preliminary to raising the price level.

Maintaining Great Britain's middle-of-the-road policy between the gold and non-gold countries, Mr. Chamberlain concluded with the advice "to keep our heads."

He added Great Britain also must maintain closest and friendliest contact with the representatives of all countries.

APPROVES STABILIZATION
The Chancellor indirectly approved President Roosevelt's rejection of a World Economic Conference compromise stabilization plan.

He asserted the declaration rejected by Mr. Roosevelt was "pretty weak stuff." The "serious check" to the World Economic Conference had not dealt a mortal blow to chances of an agreement on vital world problems, Mr. Chamberlain said.

No agreement had yet been reached regarding the future progress of the great assembly, the Chancellor said. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

MATTERN HOPES TO FLY HOME

Plans Under Way To-day to Enable Him to Complete World Air Voyage

A plan to enable Jimmie Matern to complete his flight around the world, despite the misfortune that apparently wrecked his plane beyond repair in northwestern Siberia, was taking form to-day, according to Canadian Press dispatches.
From Anadyr, Siberia, Matern wired his Chicago backers asking that a plane be sent so he could fly to New York solo.
The backers said they would "do everything" in their power to comply. Matern's message, received yesterday evening, asked a rescue expedition plane now in Alaska be sent.
The Soviet government announced a powerful airplane would leave Khabarovsk, Siberia, at once from Anadyr, and that it was ready to fly from there to Nome, Alaska, to return Matern to United States territory.

Japanese Fish Boat Seized By Russians Off Kamchatka Coast

Tokio Sends Destroyer North; Incident Adds to Tension Over Fisheries Quarrel in North Pacific; Soviet Vessels Seized July 4 By Japan Taken to Nemuro

Deaths June 14 Started Incidents

Associated Press
Tokio, July 10.—A Rengo (Japanese news agency) dispatch from Hakodate which reported the seizure of the Japanese fishing boat Kotohira Maru, carrying a crew of twenty, by a Soviet trawler Saturday, has added a fresh incident to the Russo-Japanese fishing fleet quarrels in the northern seas.

The craft was reported seized off Petropavlovsk, Kamchatka. The reason for the seizure was not stated. A Japanese destroyer was said to be en route to the scene to-day.
Another Rengo dispatch from Nemuro said the Soviet vessels which the Japanese seized off the Kurile Islands July 4 had been towed to Nemuro by a Japanese patrol boat. The captains and other officers probably will be tried shortly for unauthorized presence in Japanese territorial waters.

To the east of the Soviet crews, numbering 160, were detained aboard their ships. The Soviet consul at Hakodate went to Nemuro, but was not allowed to see those detained.

By A. D. STEFFERUD
Associated Press Cable Editor
Killing of three Japanese fishermen in Soviet waters June 14 touched off a chain of events, protests and counter-charges that Moscow and Tokio admit is serious.
Significance is added to the events by the sending of a Japanese destroyer to the scene, the waters off Kamchatka Peninsula; reports the Soviet garrison on the Russian half of Sakhalin Island is being augmented; and by recent difficulties between the two governments over disturbances along the Chinese Eastern Railway, conversations about the sale of which to Manchukuo are now progressing.

Locals of the fishing boat incidents is the waters near Kamchatka, a large peninsula in the north Pacific directly north of Japan; the Japanese Kurile Islands, which extend from Kamchatka southward to the northernmost island of Japan proper, and the large Sakhalin Island to the west, half Russian and half Japanese. Kamchatka is Russian territory.

FIRST INCIDENT
Trouble started when the Japanese fishing vessel, Pumi Maru, approached the west Kamchatka coast in need of water. Three men were sent ashore in a small boat. One account is that Soviet guards on land fired on the trio and the larger boat hastily retired, leaving the fishermen.

Within a week Japanese Ambassador Ota in Moscow was instructed to protest to the Soviet government, reserving "full rights for future action."

In the Colwood Hall, where Attorney-General Poyntz a few days ago was re-nominated, the Bowser forces of Esquimalt will gather at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening to pick their candidate to oppose the re-election of the attorney-general in that riding.

Two names will be placed before the convention. They will be those of James Elrick, ex-rev. of Esquimalt, former president of the Esquimalt Conservative Association, and F. C. Elliott, former president of the Victoria Conservative Association.

Taking part in the convention will be delegations from Cobble Hill, Metcalf, Shawanigan Lake, Port Renfrew, Jordan River, the Sooke, as well as from the districts near the city. Special Vancouver Island Coach Lines buses have been chartered to bring the delegates from up the island and down Jordan River way and to take them home after the convention.

There promises to be considerable excitement at the meeting. The rural forces are opposed to the nomination of Mr. Elrick and if his supporters should succeed in swinging sufficient votes to gain the nomination, Mr. Elliott will run anyway. Rural Esquimalt is determined to have Mr. Elliott as the Bowser candidate and they will fight tooth and nail. The Elrick forces are equally determined and the meeting has all the indications of being a very lively one.

Decision on Future Progress of London Gathering Postponed To-day

Canadian Press
London, July 10.—A decision on the future progress of the World Economic Conference was deferred to-day. The steering committee decided to await a report of a drafting committee of the full monetary commission. Prime Minister Bennett is a member of this drafting committee, which seeks to reconcile the difference between the gold and non-gold delegates in the monetary commission, a dispute that centres about inclusion of monetary questions.
Before appointing the drafting committee the monetary commission voted twenty-two to one to continue talking about monetary measures, a defeat from France and her gold standard allies.

HIGHER PRICES FOR FISH SEEN

Associated Press
Portland, Ore., June 10.—Stronger and higher prices for raw fish, with a similar movement in canned offerings, are suggested, the Portland Journal said to-day in a survey of the salmon situation. Despite the much greater run of reds in some sections of Alaska than had been anticipated, the paper said, "the situation appears stronger from all angles and in all Pacific slope districts."

The greatest strength and activity is shown by the survey. The latest agreement between Columbia River packers and trollers quoted ocean caught Chinook salmon over fourteen pounds at ten cents a pound; under fourteen pounds, twenty-eight cents, and five cents a pound for ocean caught cohoes.

The record of the pound was set August 4, 1914, when it reached $5.20. The United States dollar at noon here to-day was at $1.04 1/2. It closed at $1.04 1/2.

AT NEW YORK
New York, July 10.—Active trading on the New York foreign exchange market to-day saw Canadian and British currencies touch new high levels, and then relax slightly at the close. The Canadian dollar opened 1 cent stronger at 96 cents, and then receded a little to close at 95 3/4 cents, up 1/4 of a cent net. The premium on United States funds declined to 4 1/2 per cent. The pound sterling closed 9 cents stronger at a cable rate of $4.80, unchanged from noon. It had opened at $4.83, a new post gold-standard high and only 3 cents below its gold parity of $4.86.

The United States dollar was weak against other currencies.

The French franc gained 1-10 of a cent, and Dutch guilders, Swiss francs, the Belgian belga, German marks and the Scandinavian currencies advanced.

Exchange rates at the close to-day, as reported by the Canadian Press, were:
Canadian dollar in Paris 16.92 francs, U.S. dollar in Paris 15.57 francs.

GOLD IN LONDON
Montreal, July 10.—Gold sold on the London market to-day at a premium of 33 per cent in terms of Canadian currency. The official rate in London was posted at 124 shillings 6 pence, while buyers paid a premium of 8 1/2 pence for the metal, making the price 123 shillings 2 1/2 pence, a new high.

The pound sterling was quoted in Montreal $5.02, making the price $1.43 per ounce for the yellow metal, a premium of $10.75 an ounce.

Said Mr. Pooley: "British Columbia needs a man with a clear record to lead a country in times like these and we have that man in Dr. Tolmie."

Possibility of a demonstration against the present government if no more is taken with respect to an election was mentioned this morning by C. E. Whitney-Griffiths. Liberal candidate in the Esquimalt riding. Mr. Whitney-Griffiths said sentiment wherever he went, no matter whether it was in his own riding or in the up-land centres, was running to deep resentment against the Tolmie administration. He said that no promise concerning the prevailing wind of the election was an election.

Apart from the feelings of the electorate, there were the candidates to be considered. Mr. Whitney-Griffiths pointed out. About seventy-five were in the field and were running their campaigns at considerable personal expense. The delay of the administration with regard to the democratic custom of holding an election was naturally rousing the wrath of the nominees.

According to inside information, it had been the plan of the government to announce election plans following the nomination of Messrs. Tolmie and Pooley, but the official entrance into the field of these two Unionist leaders had been marked by such a noticeable absence of enthusiasm that the Unionists took fright and decided further to postpone the election date.

Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, told the House of Commons Britain favored a conference policy of raising wholesale commodity prices. By GEORGE HAMBLETON,
Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, July 10.—In a critical meeting today the steering committee of the World Economic Conference will hold a sub-committee's decision ruling tariffs and quotas out of discussion, but was unable to reach a decision on whether the conference should proceed with monetary questions. Consequently the full monetary committee was asked to meet this afternoon, appoint a drafting committee and report to the steering committee tomorrow. At that time, many delegates believed, it would be decided to adjourn the conference for a couple of months from the end of July to permit the United States situation to clear up, watching. "We must keep our heads," he said.

The fifth adventurous week of the great world gathering opened with the conference endeavoring to clear its way through the tangled over procedure. With the European gold bloc insistent nothing can be accomplished, while the United States refuses to agree to stabilize currencies, there was expectation of a sharp battle in the steering committee. But they were not justified by events.

The steering committee approved the reports from the sub-committee that on indirect protectionism and on coordination of production and marketing their work and in each case appointment of a drafting committee was recommended.

France once again urged the necessity of stabilizing the currency. In the monetary sub-committee Major Walter Elliott of the United Kingdom declared lack of temporary stabilization should not prevent the committee's continuing its work.

A favorable report on the Pittman resolution for stabilization of silver is expected from the sub-committee this week.

AN IMPORTANT development today was the announcement by Senator Key Pittman of the United States that he expected the committee on silver to report favorably this week on the resolution for rehabilitation of the white metal.

The plan is of the utmost interest to Canada because of the Dominion's large production of silver.

An earlier report said winding up of the present phase of the World Economic Conference on July 23 had been tentatively decided on by the steering committee. The origin of the report was given as a unusually well-informed source.

MATTERN HOPES TO FLY HOME

ACROSS BERING STRAIT
Mattern's own plan was to fly solo from Anadyr to Nome in the United States leased expedition plane, and the members of the expedition, headed by William Alexander, to return to Nome in the Russian plane.

His latest message was sent to H. B. Jameson, one of his backers in Chicago. Jameson relayed the message to The New York Journal, backers of Alexander, now at Juneau, Alaska, with the other members of the expedition. They received instructions from their backers to comply with Mattern's request and expected to take off today via Fairbanks and Nome.

The Alexander party arrived at Juneau Saturday evening in the seaplane City of Prince George, after a 250-mile flight from Prince Rupert, B.C. Alexander's companions are Fred Pettman, another member of the expedition, and W. R. McCluskey of Vancouver, pilot of the City of Prince George.

The Alexander expedition's own plane has been grounded for four days near Terrace, B.C.

STORY OF LANDING
Moscow, July 10.—Dispatches from Khabarovsk, Siberia, published in today's Moscow newspapers, say Jimmie Mattern, United States aviator, was forced down eighty miles from Anadyr on the same day he left Khabarovsk (June 14) by motor trouble, and that the fuselage and wing of his plane were damaged in landing because of the rough terrain.

The plane came down on a spot 3½ miles from the bank of the River Anadyr, then still frozen over. How long he remained there without food and shelter is not yet known, but today's dispatches said he was found beside his damaged plane by a frontier guard boat which began patrolling the river when the ice broke up.

The Pravda's Khabarovsk correspondent expressed the opinion the rifle and ammunition given Mattern by Soviet authorities just before he left Khabarovsk had stood the American in good stead during the time before he was rescued.

WENT TO BARRACKS
The stranded flier was found in good health and uninjured, and was lodged in the guard's barracks at Anadyr.

The guard also organized an expedition to pull Mattern's damaged plane to Anadyr, but dispatches did not make clear whether this had been accomplished.

By Stanley P. Richardson, Associated Press Staff Correspondent
Moscow, July 10.—With one of its most powerful seaplanes ready to leave Khabarovsk at dawn today for Anadyr to assist Jimmie Mattern, the world-famous flier, who was forced down there, the Soviet Government announced it willingly would permit the ship to fly on to Nome, Alaska, to get anything the flier might need to make the aviator himself to United States territory.

It was stated the plane would be piloted by one of the Soviet's most experienced Arctic fliers, Pilot Levantov, and will carry mechanics and fuel. The Northern Sea Route organization in charge of Arctic work, was prepared to send Levantov to Nome to bring back an entire new engine if

FOG HALTS LINDBERGH'S

Plane on Way to Greenland and Iceland at Point in Maine To-day

Rockland, Me., July 10.—Fog enveloping the Atlantic coast has interrupted Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh's flying expedition to Greenland and Iceland. Taking off from New York for Halifax yesterday, they landed near here three and a quarter hours later. It was fog, which lay thick over Nova Scotia, that forced them down short of their goal. Aviation officials at Halifax, watching yesterday evening, felt some anxiety until word of their safe landing arrived.

The famous flying couple was expected to go to Nova Scotia to-day, weather permitting. Raymond Crowley, Associated Press Writer
New York, July 10.—Aerial adventures have carried Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh thousands on thousands of miles together—flight fog, floods and fire—and always winning.

The flying couple's helpmate of the airways, studying and practicing under his watchful eyes, became first a licensed pilot and then a wireless operator, until now her husband considers her an invaluable flight companion. Together they have flown to Far China, set a trans-United States record and made innumerable shorter jaunts. Always—through good fortune and bad—their combined skill has brought them through unscathed.

In December, 1930, while Lindbergh was twirling his propeller at Baltimore, flames shot from the engine. Mrs. Lindbergh, then a wireless operator, quickly turned off the gasoline and the ignition, while the colonel seized an extinguisher and put out the flames.

but he hoped it would soon be possible to bridge the difficulties dividing the two schools of thought—the gold and the non-gold countries.

Whether the world was of the opinion, Mr. Chamberlain said, that "the chief troubles of the world were international in their origin and could only be solved by international agreement."

Inaugurating the Commons debate on the conference, Mr. Chamberlain said there was no doubt the effect of President Roosevelt's statement on stabilization a week ago not only on delegations of gold countries but on public opinion in those countries "was very profound and very disturbing."

LANSBURY SPEAKS
Rt. Hon. George Lansbury, Parliamentary leader of the Labor Party, followed him as thrown as on a screen the fact that the productive power of the world must be made a blessing instead of a curse.

When Mr. Chamberlain smiled at Mr. Lansbury's demand that the government's policy regarding the gold standard be announced, the Labor leader retorted:

"It all very well for the Chancellor to laugh, but the President of the United States, rightly or wrongly, has a point. I intend, like to know whether this government has a policy, for Great Britain does not want to be crucified on a cross of gold."

Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, Conservative leader, declared the States had been straggling itself as regarded external and internal trade by rigid adherence to the gold standard.

Sir Herbert Samuel, Liberal leader, said it would be a disaster if the Economic Conference should abandon its task.

WHEAT PACT STATED LIKELY

After a meeting today of the Big Four wheat countries' delegations it was said Poland and the four Danubian countries—Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia—had agreed in principle to limit their exports of wheat, probably for a period of two years.

The figure at which exports will be limited will be discussed at a further meeting tomorrow.

Once the maximum figure for export has been settled, the Big Four committee, composed of Rt. Hon. Stanley M. Bruce of Australia, Frederick E. Murphy of Minneapolis, and Thomas Leabron of Argentina, expects to approach the European consuming countries, principally France, Germany, Belgium and Italy.

Henry Morgenthau, United States wheat delegate, said to-night Italian co-operation had already been promised, but the position with regard to the three other countries had not been ascertained.

Winnipeg, July 10.—The end of the strike which interrupted work on the Grassmere ditch unemployment relief project near here appeared in sight today when representatives of the strikers and the Manitoba unemployed single men's relief commission agreed on settlement terms.

The strikers' committee planned to submit them to the men later and expected approval. The terms called for greater variety of food, more prompt payment of wages and provision of necessary clothing.

HITLER ADMITS HE IS SURPRISED

Associated Press
Dortmund, Germany, July 10.—Adolf Hitler, reviewing the last five months' achievements since his elevation to the chancellorship, admitted yesterday he had not believed it possible such tremendous changes could be wrought in such a short time.

The next task, he announced in a speech in this west German city, was the training of citizens for the state. The Chancellor asserted his whole endeavor would be to fight unemployment which, since his advent to power, already has been reduced by 2,000,000 persons.

Hitler said the political party system in Germany never would be resurrected and that the Nazi regime would endure forever.

WOMAN IN AUTO LOSES HER LIFE

Canadian Press
Vancouver, July 10.—Mrs. J. C. Illingworth, Napier Street, was killed when the car in which she was riding with her husband and five-year-old daughter overturned when struck by a car at the corner of Granville Street and Tenth Avenue, yesterday evening.

According to police, the Illingworth car was proceeding south on Granville and had started to turn left on Tenth Avenue when E. J. Coyne's car, also going south, struck it from the rear. The Illingworth car was turned over and the occupants thrown to the pavement. Mrs. Illingworth died en route to a hospital. Mr. Illingworth and his daughter received only minor injuries.

FORESEES NEW TRADE PACTS

Canadian Press
London, July 10.—The World Economic Conference cannot now evolve a permanent and complete solution of trade and monetary problems, but it can yet lay the foundations for important international trade treaties of the future, in the opinion of Sir Walter Layton, British editor, diplomat and economist.

While expressing the view the conference had proved a disappointment, Sir Walter, in an address here yesterday, went on to say there was no basis for the "sweeping statements of hysterical folk who dramatically declare the world has lost its chance of recovery by co-operation and the countries will resort to a policy of isolation in economic matters, if not to actual economic warfare."

WHEN NEW BRUNSWICK WELCOMED U.S. PRESIDENT

President Roosevelt, hard at work at his desk in Washington to-day, retained pleasant memories of the scenes pictured above, which came at the end of his recent vacation cruise in the schooner Amberjack II. When he arrived at his old summer home on Campo Bello Island practically the whole population of that bit of New Brunswick went to the wharf to greet him, as the upper picture shows. The lower picture was taken while Premier L. D. P. Tilley of New Brunswick was greeting Mr. Roosevelt, at whose left in the auto sat Norman H. Davis.

Ottawa, July 10.—"Thirty," which in newspaper parlance is "the end," has been written for a youthful veteran among eastern Canadian newspapermen. Doukhobor Women Are Held For Trial

Saskatoon, July 10.—Five women, members of the Sons of Freedom sect, dissenters from the orthodox Doukhobor faith, who Saturday disobeyed during a parade near Ceepee Ferry, thirty-six miles north of here, were arrested by Royal Canadian Mounted Police. They were held in custody at Langham for arraignment to-day.

EXCHANGE SWING PLEASES OTTAWA

Canadian Press
Ottawa, July 10.—The strong upward swing of the British pound and the marked advance of the Canadian dollar in relation to New York funds during the last week has been greeted with enthusiasm in government circles here. Hon. Wesley A. Gordon, who among his several portfolios has the Department of Mines, returned from the mining country of Ontario and Quebec over the week-end deeply impressed with the great activity throughout the entire district.

Not only is the price of wheat greatly advanced, but the price of gold as well. The metal sold Saturday at $30.85 an ounce, as compared with the par which is $30.87 1/2. The advance in the Canadian dollar in relation to United States funds will make it easier for Canadian debtors to meet their interest and maturity commitments in New York. During July maturing principal and interest of Canadian bonds payable in United States funds total $18,907,815.

The Dominion Government itself has no direct obligations in this total. But the payment on guaranteed bonds (all of which is interest) amounts to $4,477,561.

SIX DROWNED IN ONTARIO

Canadian Press
Toronto, July 10.—Lured into cooling waters of rivers and lakes, six persons in Ontario met death over the week-end by drowning. "However, the week-end was singularly notable for its lack of highway accident deaths. Not one person was reported killed on a road."

The water toll: Peter Milloux, Tilbury, drowned when his head became entangled in weeds and mud.

Gerrard Goslin, farmhand, drowned in the Grand River when he stepped into a deep hole. Lawrence Davis, Halifax, perished in Sarnia Bay after suffering a heart attack.

BURGLAR GETS AWAY WITH PURSES

Vancouver, July 10.—A burglar turned fisherman Saturday evening and with a long stick lifted from a bed in A. MacDonald's home on West Tenth Avenue, two purses belonging to visitors, according to a police report. Mr. MacDonald's daughter disturbed the burglar, who dropped the stick, which fell inside the bedroom. The purses contained about $12 and papers. The burglar was fishing for a third purse when he was disturbed. Burglars who broke into the Ensign Motor Company's West Georgia place on West Georgia Street at the week-end, stole an outboard motor, according to a report to police by W. C. Simons, manager.

HIS HEALTH CAUSES CONCERN

The Stanley Theatre on Granville Street was entered over the week-end, but nothing was missing from the office, which was ransacked.

The health of Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, is causing increasing anxiety to his friends and it is even reported he may have to resign from the Cabinet. The picture of Sir John above, was taken after a session of the World Economic Conference in London a couple of weeks ago.

The discovery was made yesterday by Harold Sweeney while swimming with other boys in a bathing pool in the river between Port Coquitlam Bridge and the "red bridge." The body was fully clothed. There were Jessie Sibbald, fifteen-year-old daughter of V. D. Sibbald, of Unity, and H. Ginkham, sixteen-year-old orphan. TOLMIE HITS AT OPPONENTS

Premier Confirms Reports of No Election Near; Defends "Sitting Tight"

Pooley Says Bowser Ranked; Union Picnic Made Straight Conservative

Premier Tolmie assured 1,000 persons at the political picnic at Beaver Lake Saturday that prosperity was almost here, confirmed reports that no provincial election was yet near, defended the action of himself and his ministers in sitting tight in their portfolios as quite constitutional, and pleaded for co-operation in his government's "sane and constructive efforts towards reconstruction."

The Premier attacked T. D. Pattullo, Liberal leader, and W. J. Bowser, leader of the Bowser movement, for the debts they had run up when administrations of which they were members had control of the government of British Columbia.

"No administration has the right to hang a huge load of debt on the young people in whose hands the affairs of the country will be falling in the near future," he said.

As for the Co-operative Commonwealth Federationists and the Progressives, the Premier declared they would both ruin the country with their plans for putting the costs of government on an income tax basis, leaving $80,000,000 worth of notes without interest in exchange for work.

The Premier expressed renewed hopes for the Pacific Great Eastern Railway and declared there were negotiations on with results that could not yet be stated.

SAYS BOWSER STILL RANKLED
Attorney-General Pooley declared Mr. Bowser was still rankling over the defeat administered to him at the Conservative convention at Kamloops when Dr. Tolmie was put in as leader over him.

He said the Bowserites would be given a hot time in Esquimalt. Mr. Pooley said that prosperity was on the way and pointed to wheat reaching $1.10 a bushel within the last few days as confirming his belief.

"British Columbia needs a man with a clear record to lead a country in times like these and we have that man in Dr. Tolmie," said Mr. Pooley.

"The people of British Columbia will never elect Mr. Pattullo as premier or leader of anything."

Mr. Pooley said he himself was a lifelong Conservative, but Dr. Tolmie was a natural unionist as he first secured office in the Union Government during the war. He declared union government was the method used by British parties to meet wartime and financial emergencies.

HELD UNDER CONSERVATIVES
W. O. Wallace, president of the Esquimalt Conservative Association, presided over the gathering. F. J. Osborn, as general convenor of the entertainment and sports. Although some previous announcements had it that the picnic, which had been postponed from July 1, was to be a unionist party picnic, President Wallace removed all uncertainty Saturday by holding it as a straight Esquimalt Conservative Association affair.

Mrs. Sinclair Harvey accompanied her father, the Premier. Others on the platform were Dr. H. Pooley, Mr. W. M. Dennis and Mr. Osborn, to all of whom Mr. Wallace had bouquets presented. As an interlude to the speeches Will Thorne, the comic artist, did some lightning sketches.

UNION IDEA WIDESPREAD
Hon. W. M. Dennis, new Minister of Labor, in his speech pointed out that the union government principle introduced here by Premier Tolmie was the same as that which was adopted at the World Economic Conference now in session in London. He said the Tolmie government was solidly for health and unemployment insurance, provided it was on a national basis. He declared labor could best play its part in the recovery movement by co-operating with those who, when elected, increased had not attained a favorable increased trade balance against the United Kingdom.

Mr. Dickie said he believed one way of adjusting conditions of unemployment was by shortening hours of labor. He points to economies accomplished under Premier Bennett with 1,000 Dominion civil servants let out and many more from the Canadian National Railways.

PREMIER DEALS WITH OPPONENTS
Dealing with his two chief opponents in the coming election, Premier Tolmie said:

"We are presented with the ludicrous picture of two of the men who were particularly responsible for this maladministration in the past offering themselves to us as physicians who will heal our ills and cure the present situation which they helped to create. Mr. Bowser, who led his party to defeat three times in succession, establishing a record in British Columbia for that, is now coming forward again. And then there is Thomas Dufferin Pattullo—who after twelve prosperous years increased the public debt from 25,000,000 to $117,000,000—and whose administration handed over the reins of government in August, 1926, with 84 cents out of every dollar required to pay overhead, and 16 cents left to carry on the business of the country."

"Despite impaired provincial credit due to continued deficits, the Premier's administration has increased revenue from $17,200,000, a fall in revenue from $12,000,000 to $6,000,000, and no tax provisions to increase income, the Bowser government has increased the public debt for $11,301,000 in 1916-17, with anticipated collections of not more than $5,944,000."

"Mr. Bowser is the gentleman, too, who as leader of the opposition, quietly consented to the Liberal Government of 1918 taking over the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, relieving the contractors of their liabilities and loading the province with the largest single debt we have had to confront to date; in fact this is our greatest problem."

"Totaling some $72,250,000. This indebtedness was assumed by the Liberal Government, and Mr. Bowser, as leader of the opposition, quietly consented to the whole transaction," the Premier continued.

"The second physician offering to come to the rescue of British Columbia again is one of those responsible for our present situation. T. D. Pattullo, whose government brought down twelve budgets, ten of them showing deficits aggregating over $16,000,000. He ran the business $16,000,000 in the hole and only had two surpluses, aggregating something less than $500,000. This is the man, too, who as Minister of Lands involved this country in land schemes which cost the province $12,000,000; and who, not satisfied with the 23,000,000 acres protruding above water, had to show his wonderful administrative ability by draining Sumas Lake, necessitating to the end of 1932 an outlay of $5,330,866. The records of extravagance of these two men do not inspire confidence in the overloaded taxpayer."

Voo-doo and Religious Beliefs of the Jungle Hold Sway in Harlem

By PAUL HARRISON

New York, July 10.—In sprawling lawdry, Harlem there are more night clubs than there are in Montmartre, more speakeasies than in Manhattan's fabulous Fifties, more fried chicken than there is in Maryland, more jazz music than in Bedlam, and more Negroes than in any other city in the world.

But whatever the impression made on visiting slummers, Harlem isn't all

FLOUR TAX IN FORCE IN U.S.

Washington, July 10.—A processing tax of thirty cents a bushel rested since Saturday squarely on all wheat going into the making of food for United States consumers, and administrators of the Farm Act to-day were expecting of an early legal test of this application of one of their principal powers.

While this tax went into effect to-day on grain poured into the hoppers of flour mills and other primary wheat processing plants, and also on the flour stocks of millers, wholesale dealers and bakers, retail dealers will have thirty days during which foods made chiefly of wheat are not taxable.

Up to about Friday noon farmers had offered to plough up more than 5,500,000 acres of their growing crop in return for government benefits. This meant the campaign for reduction had passed the half-way mark.

Many a Harlem witch-doctor has made a tidy fortune with such nostrums. And one of them, Dr. Alonzo Jones, C.A., even sold $40,000 worth of "Bing" Back Powder through the mails before Federal authorities stopped him. Asked what the "C.A." after his name stood for, he replied simply: "Why, Colored American, of course."

Former Victoria Girl Married In Vancouver

Miss Gertrude Hicks Becomes Bride of Joseph Tonge Ross of Victoria

Pretty Ceremony Saturday
Evening Followed By Big Reception

Unusually beautiful in its appointments was the wedding celebrated in the Canadian Memorial Church, Vancouver, on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock when Gertrude Jennie, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gideon Hicks, of 4651 Selkirk Avenue, Vancouver, and formerly of Victoria, and Mr. Joseph Tonge Ross, eldest son of Mr. James Ross and the late Mrs. Ross of Victoria, were united in marriage. The bride is well-known in musical circles here, and the bridegroom is a member of the teaching staff of the South Park School and a popular member of the Blue Ribbons basketball team, Canadian champions.

The church was most effectively decorated with masses of summer flowers for the happy occasion, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. P. Hicks of Victoria, uncle of the bride, assisted by Rev. Geo. O. Fallis, pastor of the church.

Entering the church with her father to the strains of the "Lohengrin" Bridal Chorus, the bride was a picture of girlish beauty in her wedding gown of white satin, made on form-fitting lines, with long sleeves inset with tulle from shoulder to wrist, the cuffs being edged with pearls. The V-neck was outlined with a filmy fold of the net. The beautifully embroidered veil of silk net was confined to the hair beneath a cap of lace, with a spray of orange blossoms at the nape of the neck and over each ear, and she carried a show bouquet of Opelia roses, lilies of the valley and swansonia.

The bride's two sisters attended her. Mrs. Ian Woodburn, the matron of honor, was charmingly gowned in jade green lace finished with a deep collar of georgette to match, and a close-fitting hat of the lace, finished with a nose-veil. She carried a bouquet of yellow and gold snap-dragon and maiden-pair fern. Miss Beatrice Hicks, the bridesmaid, wore a dainty frock of pebble crepe in a peach shade, made with a high neckline, and puffed, elbow-length sleeves fashioned in French. Her little turban hat was of color and material to match her gown, and was finished with a nose-veil. She carried a sheaf of orange snap-dragon and Bella Donna delphinium.

Mr. Jack Clark of Victoria, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man, and the ushers were Messrs. Pomeroy Clark and Robert Dorman. During the signing of the register, Mr. Nelson Hicks, brother of the bride, sang "Because," accompanied on the organ by Mr. J. E. Welton.

Following the service, a largely-attended reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, the reception rooms were beautifully decorated with flowers in a color scheme of pink and white, the young couple receiving the felicitations of their friends in the window embrasure which was banked with tall standard baskets of pink and white peonies and apricot.

Mrs. Gideon Hicks received the guests in a smart gown of black and white figured georgette, with hat en suite, and a corsage bouquet of Opelia roses and swansonia. She was assisted in receiving by the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Jack Clark of Victoria, wearing a becoming frock of figured georgette, in pink and mauve colorings on a cream ground, with which she wore a black velvet coat and a picture hat of white satin, with white fur jacket and a white turban.

The three-tiered wedding cake occupied a prominent place on the supper table which was artistically arranged with silver vases of Opelia roses, with swansonia and greenery, and illuminated by the white tapers in two silver candelabras.

The young couple, who were the recipients of many lovely gifts from a wide circle of friends, left for a month's honeymoon which will be spent in Seattle, Portland and at Qualicum Beach. The bride traveling in a smart ensemble of grey basket-weave, with puff sleeves, a pink satin waist and grey turban hat and grey accessories, and the groom in a white tuxedo, will make their home on Cook Street, Victoria.

Quiet Wedding Held Saturday At St. John's

At St. John's Church, on Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, Rev. Canon F. J. Chadwick performed the ceremony which united in marriage Margaret Patricia, youngest daughter of the late Mr. C. M. Harris and of Mrs. Harris, 1702 Belmont Avenue, and Mr. William Charles Gelling, second son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Gelling, 1150 Roslyn Road, Oak Bay. The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. R. Glendon, wore a becoming princess frock of white silk crepe, made with a tucked yoke and full-puff sleeves, finished at the waist with a white velvet sash, tied on one side. She wore a veil of embroidered net, long white silk gloves and carried a bouquet of pink and white roses and sweet peas.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Betty Trewin Harris, in a charming ankle-length frock of green organdy, made with a black net sash, finished with a large rose, and of lace on one side. She wore lace mittens and carried a bouquet of pink, mauve and white sweet peas. Mr. Alexander Merritt was best man, Mr. J. Jennings Burnett presided at the organ.

A small reception for relatives of the bride and groom was held after the service at the home of the bride's mother, where a two-tiered cake was set on a flower-decked table.

After a honeymoon at Qualicum Beach, the young couple will make their home at 1069 Begbie Street. The bride travelled in a green frock of silk crepe, a green coat and a white hat, and accessories.

C.G.I.T. Now In Annual Camp At "Maple Lawn"

On the banks of the Sooke River, about an hour's ride from Victoria, there is a large open space known as "Maple Lawn." That is where the Canadian Girls in Training are in camp with a roll-call of ninety. The camp is situated on one of the most beautiful locations on this island—on a slope facing the waterfront and overlooking Olympic Mountains across the straits.

Bronzed by the warm sunshine and ocean breeze and dressed in their neat uniforms of white and blue, the leaders and the girls look the picture of health and happiness. This splendid community of youth gathered together for weekly, vigorous and pleasant deportment, of different creeds, denominations and race, as a lesson to everyone, cheerfully obeying their leaders and united in working and playing the game.

A visitor to the camp on Saturday, whose impressions are recorded above, suggests that a visit from "Mother," "Dad," or one of the family, is only long enough to say "hello," a touch of love and news. But if unable to take the rather long ride out to a letter every day to those splendid little people—boys and girls in camp perhaps for the first time in their lives would be welcomed, he says.

Former Victorian Takes Vancouver Girl As Bride

Of much interest to the many Victoria friends of the bridegroom was the wedding solemnized very quietly in St. Mary's Church, Kerriedale, Vancouver, on Saturday morning, when Miss Kathleen Louise Hartney, only daughter of Mrs. Clarence H. Hartney of Vancouver and of the late Mr. Clarence H. Hartney of Regina, Saskatchewan, became the bride of Mr. William Woodhouse Blankenbach, only son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Blankenbach of Victoria.

The ceremony was performed by Major the Rev. C. C. Owen, assisted by the Rev. C. S. McCallin, rector of the church, and Mr. F. W. Robinson presided at the organ.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. James R. Hartney of Montreal, the bride was a charming picture in a wedding gown of white silk net mounted on tulle, with a French picture hat, and carrying a shower bouquet of pink roses, white peonies and white heather. Her only attendant was Miss Kathleen Isabel Sherrier, who wore a model gown of goldenrod georgette with matching moiré hat. Her bouquet was of yellow carnations and coral sweet peas.

The bridegroom was supported by Mr. John Hodson Connell, Mr. Victoria. Following the ceremony, the church, relatives of the principals gathered at the home of the bride's mother on Thirty-sixth Avenue, West, Vancouver, where a reception and informal wedding breakfast took place. Guests were received by Mrs. Hartney, wearing a smart frock of oyster grey triple georgette, black hat, and silver fox fur, with corsage bouquet of shaded mauve sweet peas; and assisting her were Mrs. Blankenbach, in an ensemble of deep plum blue, with hat to match, fox fur, and corsage bouquet of pink roses; and Mrs. James R. Hartney of Montreal, whose dress was of champagne-colored georgette, with which was worn a French model toque.

Later the bride and bridegroom left by motor for the home of the bride, which was a charming picture in a Wedgewood blue and a hat of the same shade. On their return they will make their home in Vancouver.

CULBERTSON TO PLAY "PLAFOND"

Associated Press

Paris, July 10.—An international bridge duel to determine whether system or individual brilliancy is superior to day brought together an American contract team headed by Ely Culbertson and a French team led by Pierre Belanger, who contends that any kind of system is unnecessary in bridge.

Their will play the French game, "plafond," which none of the Americans, except Culbertson, had previously played. Contract bridge is an offspring of plafond, but the latter, except for limiting the scoring the amount bid, resembles auction more closely in both scoring and playing.

The two teams of four will play thirty-six hands to-day, to-morrow and Wednesday afternoons for 5,000 francs, to be given to charity. On the American team are Mr. and Mrs. Culbertson, Michael Gottlieb and Theodore Lightner. Their opponents, besides M. Belanger, are Pierre Albarran, Aignan Baguenault de Puchesse and Baron R. de Neson.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDERD

Given an opportunity to have regular hours of sleeping, eating, bathing, and recreation, which of course are conditions imposed upon baby by the mother, there are no other reasons for baby to be bad-tempered unless he is hungry and dissatisfied. We cannot, then, due be amazed when mothers detail a long list of problems in which they are enmeshed and end by saying, "I don't know what the baby weighs, but he seems to be growing."

NECESSARY CLUE
How can anyone deal with a behavior problem without knowing whether the baby is starving or being grossly over-fed? And how is one to know that without taking any account of gains in weight? Everything the first year of baby's life is subservient to how much baby is gaining each week. That gives a definite clue to most of the problems of his young life.

The baby's behavior is bound up intricately with his nutrition. The baby who cries regularly after his six p.m. feeding may inspire his young mother to write for disciplinary methods. "Shall I just submit and rock him to sleep, or shall I let him cry it out?" she wants to know. Neither. The baby doesn't need discipline, and obviously he should not be spoiled.

HE'S HUNGRY
What he needs is more food after six p.m. feeding, so that he is satisfied then as at the other feeding periods of the day. With the nursing baby this may mean a complementary feeding. With the bottle baby it may mean a feeding of cereal.

If the baby cries almost all the late afternoon, is hungry 30 minutes or an hour before his next feeding, cannot sleep but a half hour at a time before he is awake, nervous and irritable, mother may consider these behavior problems. But scratch the surface and they show their relationship to the baby's diet. The first is probably due to a scanty nursing period at 2 p.m.; the second not enough food to keep the baby satisfied for four hours; the third, too little food for baby to sleep comfortably. The easiest way to right most of baby's behavior difficulties is by examining and correcting his diet.

B.C. Women's Institutes Exhibit Varied Products

By ELIZABETH BAILEY PRICE

"Breath of the Okanagan pines, Borne from a windswept hill. Captured and woven by skillful hands, Are you not with me still?" I hold you here, in my sheltered room, By under a far blue sky, I hear you waving your giant arms, In a murmuring lullaby.

This was the appropriate verse above the pine needlecraft work, taken down to the National Women's Institute handicrafts exhibition, Winnipeg, by the national vice-president, Mrs. H. C. McGregor, Penicton, who assembled the British Columbia exhibit for the recent convention. And the passers-by were not only attracted by the odor of the pines, but were fascinated by the artistry and design of the beautiful baskets, sandwich trays and mats with their vividly-colored centres.

B.C. EXHIBIT MOST VARIED

Of all the provinces, British Columbia's exhibit was the most varied, and the most typically provincial. For years the Women's Institutes of this province have been studying and encouraging handicrafts peculiar to the various Indian tribes. So, of particular interest were the sweaters and baskets of original native design made by the West Coast Indians, the ceremonial mask, the totem poles of the Haida, the Nootka, and the beaded bands and moccasins, and powder horn from the Port Fraser district. There was also an exhibit of work from the Inkanep Indian school in the Okanagan Valley, done by boys under thirteen years of age. It included a hand-woven rug, a doll dressed in Eskimo costume, a raffia box, a woven bag, etc.

Other W.I. handicrafts interests were shown in the exhibit of handsome gloves, raffia articles, framed pictures in wool work and felt bags. Possibilities of a pottery industry in the Okanagan Valley were demonstrated by several artistic specimens, glazed and fired, made from the Okanagan clay.

And the final British Columbia "touch," but not the least effective, was a huge bowl of American beauty.

colored peonies from the Langside Gardens at Cawston.

FROM OTHER PROVINCES

Home-hooked rugs and wall panels composed entirely the exhibits from the Maritime provinces, with the exception of Nova Scotia, who sent in addition her good ship "W.I.N.S." (Women's Institutes, Nova Scotia) a model of an old sailing vessel, with each sail labeled with the name of some special W.I. committee work, such as "child welfare," etc. Distinctly Canadian in design were the feature of these beautiful mats and wall panels, these depicting a "Winter Landscape," "Wild Ducks," "Sunset on the Carquet Shore," and "Brown-eyed Suzanna," the latter presented to the past national president, Mrs. W. P. Cameron, of Regina, a material tribute to her splendid work as chief officer.

Alberta proudly exhibited a quilt of 3,500 patches, made by a W.I. member, a sampler cross-stitched with the W.I. motto, "For Home and Country," and a woolen blanket of rose design. Ontario sent leathercraft and Angora wool work. Manitoba had an extensive display of garments of every kind, made by the Girls' Clothing group, and quilts, comforters and homespun yarns. Quebec, far-famed for its homespun, lived up to its name, with its quilting lengths, hand-hooked rugs depicting maple sugar scenes and bags of handsome floral designs.

The English Women's Institutes sent a "Literature" exhibit, showing all their organization forms, books and guides to every kind of Institute work, from administration, stationery to books on handicrafts.

LINEN FOR EVENING

Red and White Joan's Choice For Dancing

Hollywood—Linen having taken a place in the sun this year, walks right into the ballroom too. Joan Crawford has a stunning red and white polka dotted linen evening dress, with long gloves to match, that has this, that and the other, on Joan. Hand-made scallops of strips of white linen finish its edges and fasten down the front, looking a little like old-fashioned rickrack braid, only more de luxe.

Lona Andre, bicycling with Buster Crabbe the other day, wore white linen shorts and a white linen short-sleeved blouse, with stripes of blue linen running up the sides of the shorts.

Wynn Gibson, lunching at the Brown Derby with Howard Spellman, wore a swaggy sailor hat made of brown linen, pulled low over her right eye, with a small bow of linen lying flat to the crown being its only ornament.

Sally Eilers, lunching at the Fox studio with John Boles, wore a dull pink linen dress with epaulettes of organdy and a fez of braided black organdy perched on one side of her head.

June Viscek, playing tennis at the Beverly Hills Tennis Club, wore a white linen backless and sleeveless dress.

AIMEE HUTTON LEAVES HOSPITAL

Paris, July 10.—Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, who on Thursday unexpectedly left the American Hospital here, where she was recuperating from an operation, was believed by acquaintances to-day to be resting somewhere on the Riviera. They were of the opinion she would return to Los Angeles to rejoin her husband, David Hutton, and her congregation at the Angelus Temple.

LOCATION OF LARGE RADIO PLANT IN B.C. IS NOT YET DECIDED

Commenting upon newspaper criticism over alleged maintenance of excessively high-powered stations by the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission, Mr. Charlesworth said: "We own but three stations, CRCA at Montreal, N.B. CRGO at Ottawa, and CRGY at Vancouver. Then we have under lease the station CRCT at Toronto. The three stations owned by the commission are not high-powered stations, all being of 500 watts, while the leased station at Toronto is 5,000 watts."

"It is not our intention to take over any small local stations," replied the commissioner when asked whether it was planned to absorb station CPCT in Victoria.

BROADCASTING NEWS

"It is just a matter between the newspapers and the Canadian Press," Mr. Charlesworth said when the question of news broadcasting was brought up. Member newspapers will be allowed to broadcast news through local stations in co-operation with the press organization. The Canadian Press news broadcasts will go into effect July 17.

In touching upon the language broadcasting question, Mr. Charlesworth said that British Columbia was the only province in Canada without a French speaking population. The city of Montreal was second only to Paris in spoken French and boasted some of the finest musical and vocal artists in the country. This fact, when it came to radio broadcasting, he added, could not be ignored.

The government has no intention of increasing radio license fees. The revenue from license fees, after deducting cost of collection, is about $1,500,000, said the commissioner. Of this amount the commission has received $1,000,000.

There are no legislative powers vested in the commission to deal with local interference problems, Mr. Charlesworth stated. This was a matter which comes under the jurisdiction of Commander C. P. Edwards, director of radio services at Ottawa.

American Radio Conference which opens to-day in Mexico City. Canada, the United States, Mexico, Cuba and the Central American countries are represented at the conference. Newfoundland, which is not participating, picks up by short wave the programmes of the British Broadcasting Company.

The Mexican conference will go into the question of air channels and wave lengths and recommendations will be made to the respective governments. There are some very high-powered stations in Mexico which give interference, not only in the neighboring United States, but also in Canada. One station just across the Rio Grande is powered to 150,000 watts. They are American-owned stations.

When the radio commissioner was addressing a service club in Vancouver last week the chairman introduced the speaker as "Sir Hector Charlesworth." Mr. Charlesworth is still chuckling over the incident. "Do you know what I told him?" said the commissioner when the broadcast was mentioned. "I said, the title you have conferred upon me does not happen to have the King's warrant."

SOCIAL, PERSONAL AND HOME INTERESTS

Working Wives

By ANNE GARDNER

"Sure thing. And you just listen to your Uncle Jack—that boy is going to do a whole of a good job too, if he gets the chance."

"What do you mean, gets the chance?"

"Jonesy will send Harry as quick as he can get hold of him. And once Harry's there, what's left of the story for Jocko won't be much. I told the kid to get there like greased lightning and clean up quick. Say, this is the biggest story in years."

Nan was transported with excitement. "I've got to get there myself. Where's Jonesy?"

"Over yonder. But don't think he'll let a girl go where there's that much danger."

Nan squeezed through the group to Jonesy's side.

"Where do I go, boss?"

"You stay right here!" Jonesy growled. "If the dam goes, we'll have to send out all our men. You watch the phones."

"Watch the phones? Me?" Nan was outraged.

"Say, no woman has any business near that dam! And you're needed right here."

Nan knew it was no use to beg. Jonesy fussed a good deal about women reporters, but always refused to send one into a position of peril. It was the one grievance that Nan, with the recklessness of youth, had against him.

She returned to her desk, sulking. Stuck in her typewriter, where she could not find to find it was a pain.

"You know by this time why I can't keep my date but you don't know why I'm sorry I am. This looks like a big chance though, and do you mind if I think of you? Can we have our lunch as soon as I'm back in town?" It was signed "Jocko."

"Hey, Gordon!" Jonesy's voice rose in a roar. Nan looked up, startled, to see Harry dash in at the door of the city room.

"Where the hell—?" The city editor was elbowing his way toward his star reporter. "Get a car and hop down to Tracy! Get there before that dam goes out. Reporters fall over themselves round here all the rest of the time, and when a real story breaks, where is one? Had to send that cub Weisman. God knows whether he'll find the dam or not. Buy a car, rent one, steal one, get there!"

And Harry, too, was gone. Nan rounded restlessly about the office, waiting like the rest of them. Telephone calls came from the excited correspondent at Tracy.

"They're trying, they're working," or "The water's coming through more and more."

And finally his voice squeaking with excitement. "They're clearing out the town, everybody's got to go."

"Wait a minute, has the News man got there yet?" Jonesy took the phone.

"Not yet. If he comes, they won't let him in the city now. If I see what I tell him?"

"Tell him not to get his feet wet!" Jonesy roared and slammed the receiver on the hook.

Jocko not there yet, but he hadn't had time. What if, in taking the short cut to Tracy, he should miss the guards thrown out to warn travelers from the danger area? Nan who had been so eager to go herself found she was clenching her fist till the nails cut into her palms.

Harry was making his way there, too, but by the time Harry reached the danger zone the cordon would be thrown more securely. Her thoughts flew back to Jocko, her vivid imagination painting a picture. Jocko, driving his hired car at mad speed, not heeding the warnings called to him, driving into a deserted town—a wall of water sweeping down.

Nan plucked Jonesy desperately by the sleeve. "Let me go, too. I can do something!"

"It's no place for women when the dam's going out. You stay right here. It was the first time in her newspaper career that Nan had been stopped by her sex. She patted about the office, her nerves jumping. For a time she lingered in the society room, but the girls there tried in vain to reassure her. "You never heard of a reporter get-places. But always here ears were straining when the telephone rang. Jocko must be there now. He had had time.

Barnes, answering two phones at once, gave a yell that shook the room. "Weisman on the phone. Weisman calling from Tracy!"

Everyone in the city room rushed to Barnes' desk.

Jonesy wrenched the receiver from his hand.

"Has the dam gone out?" he belatedly asked.

"Nope," the voice came cheerfully back. "If it had, I wouldn't be here. As it is, I have the place to myself, and as a telephone girl, I'm a swell newspaper reporter. That's why I was so long getting through."

Jonesy spluttered tremendously in his excitement. "Well, what's the word?"

"I just came from the dam. Went there first. There's a chance, an awfully slim chance, but there are fifty men there working their hearts out. I got their names and what they're working for. Want it?"

"What is it?" Hell's bells! Jonesy motioned Nan to take the phone and he rushed to get another extra under way. "Slight Chance of Dam."

"All right, Jocko, go ahead," Nan could not keep her voice from trembling a little. "It's me—Nan."

"Gee, it's great to hear your voice!" Of all the tense group of people, Jocko was calm. He gave initial explanations, while Nan longed to implore him to hurry, to get through and away while there was time. At last he plunged into his story.

"I want to tell you about those men up there on the dam, working to save the people and the valley below. They're working on the face of the dam. They call it the 'face of the dam.' They're not thinking of that. They're trying to see if 50 men can't do the work of 500. Sam Anderson's bossing the job. He was chief engineer on the dam, you know, and he's just happened to be here to-day. I wish you could see his face."

"He built that dam and he thought he built it right. Ten thousand people have their homes in the valley below, and if the dam goes out, they die like rats. Sam Anderson's face looks like death, but he's doing the work of 10 men. If the dam goes out, he wouldn't want to be saved."

"There are 15 of his crew working with him. They adore Sam. For Sam's a great fellow. I found that out right away. They'd follow him to hell and back. They'll stay while Sam stays. And they'll stay like a lark. Tough babies, you'd lock your door against them. Maybe, but they're juggling 50-pound bags of cement and joking. 'Gee, Sam, I hear you.' 'Hurry, hurry, he wanted to tell him.' 'The rest of the men are from the valley—volunteers,' the easy voice went on. 'They aren't joking, but they're not. Their homes are in the path of that water, their wives and babies. 'Joe Dominic's here. His little truck farm is just below Tracy, and his wife is sick in bed. Sam tried to get him to quit and go get her out. But Joe says the neighbors will get her out. But he doesn't know he's crying, but he doesn't know he's crying.'"

Down the road of names he went, with a poignant bit about each man. Tears were running down Nan's cheeks, as she took it. "This tale of heroism of men who might be swept to death in another minute, told by a man in the shadow of the same death. Jocko might not get back, but the story would go to the world, each of these lowly heroes would have his due."

"I guess that's all," Jocko concluded. "Tell Jonesy I'll stick around and watch it."

"No, no Jocko, get away from there," Nan pleaded. Jonesy wants you to go, you're young. You've got your story, go to a safe place."

"Listen, Nan, between you and me I think they're going to save this dam. Help is on the way. If they can hold on here just a little longer they'll stop the leak. I hardly dare say it out loud, but that's what it looks like to me. So I'm going up there and juggling cement. A while later Jonesy'll be back the minute anything happens."

"Jocko, wait, don't go, Jonesy wants to talk to you. Wait, wait!"

But he was gone. When Jonesy's red face, perspiring, discovered that fact, he very nearly had apoplexy.

"The young damned fool. Who does he think he's working for? Doesn't he know enough to take orders?"

He reviled Jocko, but the staff knew it was because he was concerned about him. The editorial executives conferred a bit as to the advisability of printing Jocko's hopeful message. At last they decided for it, and one more extra was rushed onto the street. "News man, working shoulder to shoulder with heroes, thinks dam may be saved."

Uncle Wiggily's Lucky Rope

By HOWARD R. GARIS

"You certainly look like a Wild West cowboy rabbit," said Nurse-Jane to Uncle Wiggily one morning when the bunny gentleman hopped down the path.

"I'm glad I do," said Mr. Longears, taking off his big hat to make a low and polite bow to the muskrat lady housekeeper. "Jack Rabbit, the Western bunny told me how to dress like a cowboy."

"And he made you that lasso you have, didn't he?" asked Nurse-Jane.

"Oh, yes," spoke Uncle Wiggily, looking at the looped lasso he had fastened to his belt. "This is my lucky rope."

"Why do you call it your lucky rope?" asked Nurse-Jane.

"Because I hope it will bring me luck in finding adventure to-day," replied the rabbit gentleman. "Jack Rabbit has gone back to the West, but he taught me how to be a cowboy and I'm going to be one."

"Good luck to you," wished the muskrat lady. Then she shut into the bungalow to help Mrs. Longears wash the dishes and make the beds.

"Thanks!" said Uncle Wiggily as he hopped away, his lucky rope dangling at his side. He twinkled a pink nose, whistled a merry tune and looked on each edge of the path for an adventure.

Now, though Uncle Wiggily didn't know it, his adventure was waiting for him in the woods. It wasn't his adventure, either. It was a bad adventure made by the Fox and the Bob Cat.

A short time before Uncle Wiggily started out with his lucky lasso rope, made from long, braided grass stems, the Fox had met the Bob Cat in the woods.

"I know a way to catch Uncle Wiggily," said the Fox.

"How?" asked the Bob Cat, sticking his silly little tail in an empty milk bottle so the Fox would see it. "I mean so the Fox wouldn't see the silly little tail. 'How can we catch Uncle Wiggily?'" asked the Bob Cat.

"We'll dig a hole," whispered the Fox. "When Uncle Wiggily falls into the hole we'll come and pull him out and then we'll have him."

"But what makes you think he will fall into any hole we might dig?" asked the Bob Cat, who was smarter than he looked.

"We'll dig the hole right here in the bushes and path," said the Fox. "We'll cover the hole with little sticks, grass and leaves. It won't look like a hole at all but it will be there just the same. When Uncle Wiggily comes hopping along he will step on the thin cover over the hole. He'll fall through and we'll have him."

"Fine and dandy!" mewed the Bob Cat. "We'll do it!"

So he and the Fox quickly dug a deep hole in the middle of the path. They covered the hole lightly with sticks and grass so Uncle Wiggily wouldn't know it was there. It was a trap hole.

"Now whispered the Fox when the hole was finished and covered. 'We'll go away and hide and wait while we'll come back and pull Uncle Wiggily out of the hole. We'll get him this time.'"

"I guess so," said the Bob Cat, curling his whiskers.

After the two bad Chaps had gone away to hide themselves behind some bushes and trees, Uncle Wiggily came hopping along the path. The rabbit gentleman wished he could have his picture taken, for he was sure he looked very fine, indeed, dressed like a Wild West cowboy rabbit.

All of a sudden Mr. Longears stepped on the grass and sticks that covered the hole. The covering was so thin, like new ice, that the bunny gentleman broke through and fell into the hole.

"Oh, my goodness me! I'm caught in a trap!" cried Uncle Wiggily.

In their hiding place the Fox and the Bob Cat heard the noise Mr. Longears made as he fell into the hole.

"He's caught! Let's go get him!" mewed the Bob Cat.

"There is no hurry," said the Fox. "He can't get out. We have him! Let's rest ourselves here a little longer."

But while the bad Chaps were resting, Uncle Wiggily was trying to think of a way to get out of the hole. All of a sudden he thought of his lucky lasso rope.

"I'll toss one end of my lasso up out of the hole," whispered the bunny. "Maybe the loop will catch on a tree stump and I can climb up the rope like a sailor and get out. I'll do it!" Once, twice, three times Uncle Wiggily tossed his lasso up out of the hole. Twice it fell back on top of him. But the third time it caught on a stump and held and the rabbit soon climbed up his grass rope and out of the trap.

He ran home to his bungalow and when the bad Chaps looked in the hole all they saw was broken sticks and old leaves. Ha! Ha! Ha!

And if the Joe-cream cone will buy new hats for the head of cabbage I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's old clothes.

Sister MARY'S KITCHEN

GIVE THE CHILDREN CHOCOLATE MILK

Many mothers have difficulty in persuading small persons to drink milk three times a day. If a chocolate milk drink is served for luncheon it helps to break the monotony and expected mess of plain milk and makes milk the other meals less difficult.

Chocolate syrup is most convenient to have on hand. It can be used in numerous ways and makes it possible to prepare chocolate beverages with little effort and small expenditure of time.

Of course cocoa can be made in the usual way, quickly chilled and served but this takes longer than it does to add two or three tablespoons of chocolate syrup to a glass of cold milk.

CHOCOLATE SYRUP

One-half cup bitter chocolate, one and one-half cups granulated sugar, two cups water, one-quarter teaspoon salt, two teaspoons vanilla.

Grate chocolate, mix sugar, salt and chocolate. Add boiling water to make a smooth paste and slowly stir into two cups of boiling water. Boil until syrupy. Cool and add vanilla.

Use from two to three tablespoons of this syrup to a glass of milk.

CHOCOLATE FLIP

This drink with a sandwich makes a splendid luncheon for a child on a hot day. One teaspoon dry cocoa and two teaspoons sugar can be used in place of the chocolate syrup if syrup is not a hand.

One egg, two tablespoons chocolate syrup, one cup milk.

Separate white and yolk of egg and beat white until stiff. Beat in chocolate syrup. Add milk to yolk and beat until well mixed. Combine mixture, pouring the yolk mixture into the white. Mix well and serve. This will make two glasses. The milk should be well chilled in order to insure a palatable cold drink.

Never put ice into a drink made with milk. The ice dilutes the drink and makes it unpleasantly thin and tasteless.

The chocolate syrup can, of course, be added to hot milk to make a hot drink when wanted.

To-morrow's Menu

Breakfast—Blueberries and cream, cooked rice cereal, crisp boiled bacon, whole wheat toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Chocolate flip, lettuce sandwiches, apple sauce, molasses cookies, tea.

Dinner—Baked bluefish, potatoe gratin, buttered Bermuda onions, cottage cheese salad, compote of fresh fruits, milk, coffee.

KINSMEN BACK BABY CLINICS

Child Welfare Proposal Enthusiastically Supported at Chattham, Ont., Convention

Canadian Press

Chattham, Ont., July 10.—Child welfare work, and particularly establishment of "well baby" clinics as a national service objective, was advocated Saturday by Dr. Walter E. Charteris of Chattham, national vice-president of the Kinsmen, in an address at the annual convention of Associated Kinsmen's Clubs. The proposal, enthusiastically supported by many of the delegates, will be further considered by the executive.

"I'm urging we adopt child welfare and well-baby clinics in particular as our work," he said.

Vital statistics for the Dominion in 1931 showed 210,473 live births and 20,360 deaths of children under one year, he said.

The Hamilton Club, original branch of the organization, was made curator and keeper of the national flow of the order.

Horoscope

TUESDAY, JULY 11, 1933

Aspects that contend are discerned in the horoscope for to-day, according to astrologers. It is a time for cautious procedure. In the early morning the stars incline toward self-deception and lack of courage in facing the special faults. The day will measure their limitations and proceed accordingly.

The inclination to criticize may be strong, especially where public servants are concerned. It is well to judge charitably, waiting for results.

There is a promising sign to-day for those who start new enterprises. Merchants should make the most of opportunities to extend trade.

Industry is subject to stimulating and stabilizing planetary influences. Many new projects are promulgated.

Science is to make tremendous progress in applying late inventions to everyday needs. Households are to benefit through changed conditions of living, it is foretold.

The evening of to-day is auspicious for associations with persons of note. Social contacts should be fortunate.

Gradually reforms are to improve municipal governments, it is prophesied. Police departments are to benefit through wise civic aid, astrologers foretell.

Honors are to be bestowed upon American leaders in education, it is prognosticated, and teachers are to benefit through scientific reorganization of schools and universities.

Culinary art craves activities this summer will mark sweeping reforms that establish law enforcement in many cities, the seers prophesy. The average citizen is reminded that the fault is his, if he permits the growth of the underworld.

Smugglers are to cause losses to Canada as well as the United States, if the stars are rightly interpreted.

Airplanes as well as steamships are to become involved in serious infractions of the law, it is prognosticated.

Persons whose birthdays fall on to-day have a year of fair prosperity. For many interesting new friendships are presaged.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly magnetic in personality and bold in mind. Subject of this sign may attain fame through public service.

Senator George W. Norris, born in high place, was born on this day, 1891.

Son of Lamont, Morgan Banker, Turns Communist; Wife Becomes Socialist

By PAUL HARRISON

New York, July 10.—Curious people. New Yorkers. So curious in fact, that they blocked traffic on one side of Broadway the other evening by clustering around a young man who, apparently unmindful of them, was fiddling with a gadget that looked like a stereoscope, and from which wires led into a suitcase he was carrying. Now and then he would hold it up to his face and call excitedly: "Hello, Bill! I see you now, Bill. . . I can see you smoking a cigar. . . Do you see me all right; and can you hear me?" . . . It works, Bill, it works. . . Suddenly seeming to notice the crowd, he opened the suitcase and began selling "souvenirs of this great scientific triumph, a marvelous little device known as the "television-scope," only 25 cents. These turned out to be tiny cardboard boxes containing squares of mirror and with full directions for using them to look around corners. The salesman, however, was around a couple of corners by that time.

KNOWING LOOKS

A more exciting hoax was perpetrated by a young joker, who has an office in the L. of a big building and can look across into the offices of several of his friends. He called them up, one by one, and glowingly described a contraption he was planning to finance—machine enabling him, operator to see over the telephone. After that he would announce a demonstration. "I can see you now," he would say (and he could, too, through the window). "You are wearing a grey suit and a blue tie, and your secretary is sitting there waiting for dictation. . . Within an hour he had gotten promises of well over $100,000 in subscriptions, and his friends felt pretty badly when they learned they were not all going to be rich.

Lamont, of the House of Morgan, is a Communist, his wife a Socialist, and the two of them have just written a book hailing Russia as the ideal state. While Thomas Lamont was floating Japanese bonds for the Morgan company last year, Mrs. Corliss Lamont was just as determined heading a movement to boycott all Japanese goods. Now she and her husband are forecasting the overthrow of capitalism. For all that, the younger Lamonts and the elder are said to get along very well, in private.

LIBBY COMING BACK

Libby Holman Reynolds, it's whispered, is considering a return to stage next fall: a rumor that gains credence from the fact that Dwight Deere Wiman is gathering material for a new "Little Show" of Morgan, who is Museum of Natural History there are some mounted fish trophies that were caught by a "Dr. Grey." Bespeaking a rare brand of fisherman's modesty on the part of Zorita, the writer.

There's a Greenwich Village artist who looks and dresses very like John Barrymore. Which is reminiscent of the fact that both John and Lionel wanted to be artists. And Ethel Barrymore's Coit made early plans for a career as a concert pianist.

Spanish young men are demanding that their fiancées know how to cook, so the government has been forced to open cooking schools for them. Here often a bridegroom wants a bride who knows how to bring in something to cook.

GERMANS IN LONDON SNUB CHANCELLOR OF AUSTRIA

By MILTON BRONNER

LONDON—When some of the stalwart German delegates to the World Economic Conference here passed by and did not seem to see a tiny man with determination written all over his bright, alert countenance, it was not because they had been suddenly stricken blind, but because of set purpose they wanted to snub him.

For the victim of their snubs is Dr. Engelbert Dollfuss, Chancellor of Austria, the youngest of his rank in Europe and today one of the stoutest adversaries of the Nazi regime of Germany. If he wins in his present fight to keep Austria free, independent and unattached, he will go down in history as the man who thwarted "Handsome Adolf" Hitler.

HERO FOR NAZI FIGHT

Born in lower Austria, educated in Austrian universities, Dollfuss became, after the World War, Secretary of the Lower Austrian Farmers' League and director of the Lower Austrian Agricultural Chamber. All that was left of the once mighty Austria was a country of 6,000,000 people, nearly 2,000,000 of whom are in Vienna. The Socialists had their militant organization in "Red Vienna." The conservatives had their semi-Fascist organization, the Heimwehr, which often threatened to take Vienna.

When some months ago Dollfuss became Chancellor, he found this year-old fight between the Heimwehr and the Socialists still going on in the Parliament. He promptly dismissed it and proceeded to rule without it. Just when Austrians of most classes were getting ready to sing a hymn of hatred about him, he ran head-on into a clash with the German Nazis, which at once made him a national hero.

There is a good-sized Nazi party in Austria. The German Nazis have been sending some of their best organizers across the border to help on their cause. They predicted that, if an election for a new Parliament were held, they would sweep the boards. Dollfuss would have to go and the union of Austria with Germany would be an accomplished fact very shortly thereafter.

BITTER HITTER ENVOYS

That has been the steady dream of most Germans. In fact, long before Hitler came into power, Germany announced a proposed economic pact with Austria, which was looked upon as the first step to the "Anschluss." France promptly blocked that game. Austria's dream is the annexation of Austria. He is an Austrian, by birth and his dearest dream is the union of the Austrian Germans with Germany. Dollfuss fought the game. He forbade Nazi meetings. When German Nazi ministers of state came to Austria to speak, he bluntly left them. They were unwelcome guests and sped their parting—Germany—reluctantly by making the price of a visa for travel in Austria so high that Germans could not afford it. This was blow aimed at Austria's tourist business.

In the meantime, Dollfuss's attitude brought a sort of truce between the Socialists and the Heimwehr. They faced the common enemy, the Nazis. Then began a race between Hitler and Dollfuss for favors in Rome. Vice-chancellor Papen saw the Pope. So did Dollfuss, and what he made, he concluded a friendly concordat with the Vatican. Captain Goering saw Mussolini. So did Dollfuss. The latter seems to have won, for he is not anxious to have Germany as his frontier neighbor which it would be if Austria were absorbed. He prefers a more distant and unimpaired independent Austria. He showed his good that they are sure to succeed. Every one deprecates the importance of the recent rise in industrial production, commodity and securities prices, insisting that there is no evidence for any solid base for such improvement beyond the general belief that a great attempt is to be made to build that base.

The attitude is directly opposite that of the previous administration, that confidence could be restored by ballyhoo.

Washington, July 10.—"Whoa!" That's the expression unanimously used by the people charged with rescuing the country from the depression when anyone becomes exuberant on the theory that permanent recovery already has begun.

It is one of the most remarkable phenomena of the "New Deal" administration. Roosevelt at his press conference cautiously admits a little encouragement, but expresses himself in "hopes." Secretary of Labor Perkins announces a relatively large jump in employment and payrolls, but warns it is not enough to keep production increasing. Industrial Recovery Administrator Hugh Johnson privately warns that there may be a serious crash unless a more solid foundation is built for prosperity. Other officials privately or publicly echo the thought.

$10 MINIMUM HELD TOO LOW

First Wage Scale to Win U.S. Government Approval Causes Trouble

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, July 10.—The Commerce Building, headquarters of the industrial recovery act, is being called "the new capital of the United States." Latest indications are that it may be the scene of a continuous cat-and-dog fight, although there's no reason why that fact should seriously hamper achievement of the administration's aims.

But the recovery administration got off to none too good a start. General Johnson, the administrator, remarked the other day that "we're fumbling into it," and some of the labor representatives, at least, considered the expression apt.

Others in the administration agree that it was unfortunate that the first "code of fair competition" to come up for approval—that of the cotton textile industry—should provide a $10 minimum wage ($11 for northern mills) and a maximum week of forty hours.

TEXTILE WAGE ATTACKED

Johnson and his crew expect most minimum wage standards to be higher and maximum hours shorter than those but the psychological effect of the $10-forty-hour proposal was not to be discounted and Jim Emery of the National Manufacturers' Association promptly wrote to members suggesting that they follow that code.

The recovery organization broke into two camps—those who thought $10 and forty hours were satisfactory and those who more or less violently disagreed.

Johnson, with surprising promptness, declared the industry had done a "beautiful job" and that the code "looked good" to him. His publicity bureau announced that the proposed minimum represented a 30 per cent increase in wages, but no one has yet answered the question: "Increase over what?" Or whether that meant increase in wage rates or total wage payments.

JOHNSON EXPLAINS

Johnson explains that a forty-hour maximum week is necessary in the textile industry if the employers are to have enough workers to operate their mills. He had been told that by manufacturers and also by amiable Tom McMillon, president of the United Textile Workers, who had okayed the code. But labor's other representatives in Washington, as well as members of the administration's own labor advisory board, couldn't go along with McMillon. They immediately went into huddles and decided to fight the hour and wage provisions of the code at the hearing beginning June 27.

Members of the labor advisory board told Johnson that they considered it their function—not specified by the act—to put up a fight on just such points. It began to seem likely that the minimum wage figure would be boosted and the working week hours lowered. The labor group also decided to fight for an anti-child labor clause.

SHORTER SCHEDULED URGED

It was contended that at least 100,000 workers had been forced from the textile industry in the previous few years by the depression, low wages and the speeding up system, that the industry could find all the skilled and unskilled workers it wanted and that it could get along on a sixty-hour operating schedule instead of an eighty-hour schedule.

The $10 and $11 minimum scales admittedly would improve the status of cotton mill workers. The question raised is whether these standards are sufficient to drive up employment and purchasing power to the extent that is hoped for from the recovery act, and whether they set a bad precedent for other industries.

MUSSOLINI ENDS HIGH-HATTING

Associated Press

Rome, July 10.—High-hatting is prohibited literally in a code drawn up by Premier Mussolini for observance by Fascist officials.

The list of rules, circulated among the heads of regional organizations, warns them not to appear at official ceremonies with silk top pieces, instructs them not to frequent de luxe restaurants and theatres, says they should walk whenever possible and use inexpensive automobiles or motorcycles when transportation is necessary.

Admonishing them not to put on airs, the code says: "Frequent humble quarters of the cities, getting in tune with the working classes morally and physically. Keep regular office hours, lending a patient and sympathetic ear to as many as possible of the people who come to see you."

A. Marconini, of the Victoria Bowling Club, and Mrs. C. Fea, Victoria West Club, captured the singles titles for men and women in championship play on Saturday at the Beacon Hill and Burnside lawn bowling greens. Marconini's victory gives him possession of the Peace Trophy, emblematic of the Vancouver Island championship, while Mrs. Fea was awarded the Wenger Cup, the same emblem for the women.

Modern Life Will Annihilate Child Who Has Been Allowed to Develop "Individuality" at Expense of Self-control, Manners and Obedience — Success and Happiness Are Attained Only Through Self-discipline

A WOMAN was telling me the other day with great pride that she and her husband were letting their children grow up perfectly untrammelled by any restraints because they wanted their youngsters to develop their own individuality. "They never said 'don't' to them," she said. "They never made them do anything they did not desire to do. They never corrected their faults or taught them any manners. And least of all did they attempt to make them obey."

"And to what far isle do you expect them to emigrate when they are grown?" I asked her. "For you are entirely unfitting them for civilization and to get along with their fellow creatures. You are sending them back to a state of savagery and only among other savages will they be permitted to exist. Modern life will simply annihilate them because they have not been prepared to meet it."

"To begin with, there is nothing that there is more nonsense talked about than there is about developing a child's individuality. It needs to be suppressed far more than it needs to be encouraged. Generally it is just an alibi for laziness, rudeness, selfishness and a lack of consideration for other people's rights and feelings."

"We are always meeting men and women who cannot be tied down to a job like the common herd, or who cannot adapt themselves to circumstances, or who say and do insulting things because it is just their way; but you do not see any of these individual creatures, who pride themselves on being different from other men and women, getting anywhere."

"As a matter of fact, extreme individuality is a handicap that takes actual genius to overcome. There is some sort of herd instinct that makes us resent any marked difference in our species, and we avoid those who are odd or queer. The happy and successful people are those who show small variation in the human pattern, whose types we recognize at sight and who will fit in anywhere."

"You never say 'don't' to your children, yet life is one long 'don't' to all of us. We must control our appetites. We must control our passions. We must control our tempers and our tongues. How are your children going to have the strength and the wisdom to do these things if you have never taught them to deny themselves the impulse of the moment?"

"The prisons are full of criminals who were children who never had 'don't' said to them. For who are the murderers but the high-tempered little boys and girls who were permitted to bite and kick and strike when they got angry? Who are the drunkards but the children who were permitted to gorge themselves on cake until they made themselves sick? Who are the thieves but the children who were never denied anything they wanted whether their parents could afford it or not?"

"You never make your children do anything they do not want to do. That is why there are so many failures in the world. That is why there are so many divorces. Men and women who have not the grit to stick to a thing and carry on until they turn defeat into victory. Men and women who turn yellow and throw up their hands and quit just as soon as they hit the hard sledding."

"We all know plenty of down-and-outers, talented men who have spent their lives shifting from one job to another and never succeeding at anything. They are the men who always gave up every job when it became work instead of play, and they are the grown-up children of the parents who never made their youngsters do anything they did not want to do. All of us know women who have left two or three husbands when they found that marriage meant putting up with a man's peculiarities and sacrificing their own pleasure and keeping house and rearing children. And these divorcees, almost without exception, are the daughters of parents who never made their children do anything they did not desire to do."

"You are not teaching your children any manners, yet when they start out to make their way in the world their manners will be what they are judged by. They may have hearts of gold. They may be as talented as even you think they are. But no one will bother to discover their hidden merits if they are brusque or rude or boorish. A good approach is half the battle when a youngster starts out to sell himself in business or a profession."

"You are not teaching your children obedience yet obedience is just respect for authority and is the foundation of all law and order. Discipline is the very foundation stone of good citizenship, and it is because so many fathers and mothers have ceased to teach their children to obey that our country is filled with young hoodlums of both sexes."

"It is a lovely theory, this about not suppressing children's individuality, and it will save you a lot of work and worry and sacrifice to let your children grow up undisciplined and knowing no law but their own sweet will, trusting that they will turn into model young people when they are grown, but it does not work out in real life. As you bring them up so they are, and you have no right to wreck their lives by bungling your job."

Adventure of the Northland

IN LABRADOR

Northward and northward sailed the Amundsen, past the great island of Newfoundland to the coast of Labrador. The ship came to anchor near the town of Hopedale, and Dr. Barstow prepared to leave it in a lifeboat in company with half a dozen geologists.

Up, up, went Allen

Allen asked the museum director for permission to go alone. "No," replied Dr. Barstow, "we are going at least twenty-five miles inland, and shall have a great deal of mountain climbing to do. You had better stay with your sister. While we are away, Mr. Weston will look after you, and I have no doubt that he will take you for a short visit to the shore."

"What mountains are you going to climb?" asked the boy. "The Kiglapait, or in other words, the 'dog-toothed mountains.' You can see them yonder. We hope to locate some fossils."

Soon after the geologists left the boat, Allen went to Mr. Weston and said: "Uncle Tim, will you take Roberta and me for a little trip ashore? Dr. Barstow said he thought you would. "Certainly," the young scientist replied. "Go and tell Roberta to get ready, and we'll be off in a jiffy."

While the three were rowing ashore they began to talk about the boat they were in. "This little boat doesn't have a name," remarked Uncle Tim. "Let's give it one."

"All right," said Roberta. "Let's call it the Rambler!"

That name was agreed upon, and Allen declared that he would paint the letters near the stem as soon as he could get some paint.

The party landed about half a mile from Hopedale. Roberta spotted a golden plover, and asked about it. "Golden plovers come here to nest during the summer," said Uncle Tim. "It is declared that they fly clear from Patagonia, in the southern part of South America, making a journey of 21,000 miles each year."

Allen saw a boulder-covered hill ahead, and ran toward it. If he could not go mountain-climbing, he said to himself, he would do a little hill-climbing at least. Up, up, he climbed, until Uncle Tim called to him to be careful.

Several thousand more copies of the "Surprise Leaflet" will be mailed without charge to readers who send me a stamped, return envelope. This leaflet is one of the most popular I have offered. It contains "tricks" and "how to" perform magic tricks. To-morrow—Danger in Sight.
